Courts. Crown alleges Ottawa man was trying to spread virus

In graphic and disturbing detail, a jury heard Thursday an Ottawa man allegedly lied to men in online chats about his HIV-positive status in order to have unprotected sex with them and give them the virus.

Steven Paul Boone pleaded not guilty to attempted murder and administering a noxious substance by allegedly attempting to infect three men with HIV between January and April 2010. He was also charged with aggravated sexual assault on two of the men and three other men.

Crown prosecutor Louise Tansey-Miller said in her opening statement Boone's actions were intentional and could have resulted in the deaths of his sexual partners. "He lied to some of his HIVnegative sexual partners about his HIV-positive status and he remained silent with others even as they disclosed their status to him," argued Tansey-Miller.

Approximately 3,000 pages of online chat logs with 600 different people were retrieved from Boone's computer and entered as evidence. The chats read aloud in court Thursday were sexually explicit conversations between Boone and men he met online.

"Mr. Boone used sex, his own toxicity and deceit to perpetuate his crimes"

Crown prosecutor Louise Tansey-Miller

Before they were read aloud, the Crown told jurors there is a subculture known as "bug chasing," in which HIV-positive men seek out other men to infect them with the virus.

In at least nine chats read aloud by Ottawa Police Sgt. Ann Lapointe, Boone allegedly lied about his HIV status.

In one chat a man said he thought Boone wasn't telling the truth about being "clean."

When asked, Boone replied, "Yep. I'm clean," said Lapointe. The man later said, "You can go to jail for lying to me."

In other chats, some men were excited about contracting HIV from Boone. The jury was told these people were referred to as "bug chasers."

Boone's former roommate testified that when Boone told him he had HIV, he said he didn't use condoms.

"I was just blown away. I didn't know what to say," said the witness.

Hospital orderly accused of sexually assaulting 99-year-old patient arrested

Police on Wednesday arrested a Gatineau Hospital orderly accused of sexually assaulting a 99-year-old female patient.

Gatineau police arrested Yves Laplante, 44, at his home on charges of sexual exploitation and sexual assault for inappropriate touching and sexual gestures made toward the woman on Sept. 18.

"He was directly observed by other employees," said Gatineau police spokesman Sgt. J.P. Lemay. "Certain actions and curious behaviours led employees to speak out. There is no indication of these actions against other people," he said when asked if other cases had

The woman was hospitalized Aug. 28 at the Gatineau Hospital for a condition that left her physically and mentally incapacitated.

"These allegations are very serious," said Sylvain Dubé, director of communications at the hospital."I can't say how many times this man interacted with the patient since she was hospitalized."

Laplante was fired Sept. 20 from his job at the hospital, where he worked for the past seven years. Sgt. Lemay said it took police time to make an arrest and press charges because of the time it took to meet with hospital employees and get their statements.

The staff have met with the victim's family, and they are relived about the arrest, Dubé

"It's thanks to the vigilance of our staff that Gatineau police were able to bring charges."

Orderlies are charged with cleaning incapacitated patients, bringing them water and looking after their wellbeing. "She was dependent on this employee," he added.

The hospital hires roughly 700 employees every year, Dubé said, making it difficult to check the criminal histories of each one.

"We're working right now to look at the history. It's a lot of people to verify the history," he said. "We always have to be vigilant, always."

Cyclists ride in Naçu's memory

Deadly accident.Goal is to make Ottawa roads safest in Canada: Watson

About 100 cyclists and pedestrians made their way from Sparks Street to Ottawa City Hall Thursday in memory of Danielle Naçu.

Naçu was killed a year ago when she was knocked from her bike into traffic by the open door of a parked car. The federal public servant and University of Ottawa student was 33.

The crowd paused on Queen Street near O'Connor at the "ghost bike" adorned with flowers that serves as a memorial for Nacu.

At Ottawa City Hall, Nacu's mother, Lynn Kelly, told the crowd they've been invaluable in promoting her daughter's legacy of safe cycling, volunteerism and environmentalism.

"It could not have been accomplished today without you, without all of you," Kelly said. The emphasis was on promoting awareness of cycling safety for both motorists and cyclists. But Samantha McGavin, who helped organize the event, said the city can do more.

"We very much need to design city streets around cyclists," McGavin said. "Right now, they're designed almost exclusively for cars. There's no reason, when we're redoing any street, why it shouldn't be designed to better promote cycle safety."

Addressing the crowd,

Mayor Jim Watson said the city is doing what it can to promote cycling safety through its Safer Roads Ottawa plan, released in 2011.

"We are all working together — city officials, groups, organizations and residents — to do more and to protect the most vulnerable of our road users: cyclists and pedestrians," Watson told the crowd.

Hammers and swords. Defence turns tables in trial over brutal killing

The threads of a potential defence theory in a trial about a brutal beating and sword killing began to emerge Thursday as a pathologist was crossexamined.

The defence suggested the victim in a brutal May 2009 fight might have at one point been wielding a sword.

Toby Land, 28, has pleaded not guilty to second-degree murder in the May 2009 death of Dominic Doyon, 31, who was found in an apartment with indented, crescentshaped marks on his skull — allegedly made by a hammer — and stab wounds the Crown alleges were made by a Samurai sword.

The Crown alleges Land was upset Doyon was dating a teenager.

Local designers flaunt their threads

Ottawa Fashion Week. New talent like Mahlet Seifu see event as a stepping stone for their careers

As Preston Street turns into a fashion boulevard for Ottawa Fashion Week, young local designers say that, thanks to the Internet, even the city's small industry is a great place to start flaunting their threads.

Protest expected at launch of Ireland's first abortion clinic

Northern Ireland.

The issue unites social conservatives across the region's historic divide between British Protestant and Irish Catholic

A family-planning charity plans to open the first abortion clinic in Ireland, challenging decades of legal confusion over the extremely limited access to pregnancy terminations in both parts of the island.

Officials at the Marie Stopes facility due to open next week in Belfast, capital of the British territory of Northern Ireland, said Thursday they plan to offer nonsurgical abortions to women whose pregnancies are less than nine weeks in gestation.

Alternative

The traditional route for more than 4,000 abortion-seekers annually in Ireland has been a flight to Britain, where abortion has been legal since 1967, and is available to anyone up to 24 weeks pregnant.

They expect protests and have declined to reveal the clinic's street address.

Women will receive medication that causes a miscarriage only if doctors determine that continued pregnancy would jeopardize the woman's physical or mental health.

Abortions under such circumstances are supposed to be legal already in both parts of Ireland. But lawmakers have failed for decades to clarify the situation, leaving hospitals and doctors fearful of suffering pickets or lawsuits if they're publicly identified as an abortion provider.

In Belfast, Northern Ireland lawmakers have repeatedly bungled the publication of legal guidelines to doctors, while in Dublin, successive Republic of Ireland governments have refused to pass legislation in line with a landmark 1992 Supreme Court judgment. It ordered abortions to be legalized to save a woman's life—including her own threat to commit suicide if denied one.

"The law in Northern Ireland has been very unclear for many women and health-care professionals," said Dawn Purvis, director of the new clinic. "Our clinic will provide a safe, caring, sensitive environment for integrated family planning in Northern Ireland for the first time."

Africa. Harper commits $20M in aid

Prime Minister Stephen Harper has committed $20 million in Canadian aid money to help famine-stricken residents in Africa's Sahel belt.

Harper's announcement came as he visited a United Nations centre in the Senegalese capital of Dakar on Thursday.

Thursday.

The $20 million covers a period of three years and is aimed at improving food distribution and farmland rehabilitation.

"Across the Sahel region of Africa, there are many problems, including millions of men, women and children who are suffering because they do not have enough to eat," Harper said on the first full day of his trip to Africa.

"I know I speak for all Canadians when I tell you we will not abandon you. The challenges we're talking about today go well beyond the food shortage, but obviously for many people this is the most critical challenge."

Harper was in Senegal before heading to the Democratic Republic of the Congo on Friday for the summit of la Francophonie on the weekend.

Earlier on Thursday, the prime minister visited a vocational training centre and announced Canada will contribute $5 million between 2012 and 2017 to improve employment opportunities for young people in Senegal.

Harper was expected to take part in a roundtable with business officials later on Thursday before meeting Senegalese President Macky Sall. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rabbis, officials clash on circumcision

A group of rabbis is clashing with New York City health officials over the safety of an ancient circumcision ritual.

Three rabbis and three Jewish groups asked a federal court Thursday to block enforcement of a new regulation requiring written parental consent for a rite called "metzitzah b'peh," in Hebrew, which city health experts said can spread infection.

During the ritual, the person performing the circumcision attempts to cleanse the wound by sucking blood from the cut and spitting it aside.

The saliva contact puts the infant at increased risk of getting herpes simplex, a virus that is carried harmlessly by a large majority of adults but that can be deadly in newborns.

The city's Health Department said it has documented 11 cases of the infection since 2000 among children believed to have undergone the ritual.

Ten required hospitalization. Two developed brain damage. Two died. The deaths prompted some doctors to call for the practice to be banned entirely, but the city adopted a compromise approach instead last month: mohelim performing the circumcision would be required to inform parents that the city believed the procedure was dangerous and have them sign a consent form.

The ease with which Delisle passed secrets to the Russians has prompted a review of security measures

The federal public safety minister says Canada remains tight with its intelligence allies despite a naval-spy scan-dal that is said to have done "irreparable damage" to the country's interests.

Vic Toews said Thursday

he doesn't believe Canada's reputation with its closest collaborators has been hurt at all by navy Sub-Lt. Jeffery Paul Delisle's actions. Toews noted he continues to work closely with Janet Napolitano, the U.S. Homeland Security secretary, and Eric Holder, the U.S.

"Delisle's unauthorized disclosure to the Russians since 2007 has caused severe and irreparable damage to Canadian interests' at a Calgary news conference. "This has certainly not in any way hampered our very robust exchange of information."

Public Safety Minister Vic Toews

Delisle, a 41-year-old intelligence officer with the Roy-al Canadian Navy, pleaded guilty Wednesday to passing military secrets to Russia. He transferred sensitive informa-tion onto a thumb drive from a secure location before passing it to a Russian operative.

How that could happen so easily at a highly protected fa-cility has prompted a review of security measures that were in place at the time, Toews said.

"That's something I believe that the Department of National Defence is doing. We are very aware of the case and together with our allies are reviewing the procedures that were in place to protect the security of that information," said Toews.

"Given the extensive sharing of information that occurs between the Five Eyes community - Great Britain, Canada, the United States, New Zealand and Australia — our agencies are always concerned when there is any compromise of security and we work very closely together."

Toews wouldn't get into the specifics and would not comment on Delisle's guilty plea. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vic Toews said the government is also aware that the head of the U.S. Intelligence Committee is urging Canadian companies not to do business with the Chinese telecommunications giant Huawei as a matter of national security. A U.S. report earlier this week urged companies to avoid doing business with Huawei and ZTE and said regulators should prevent them from buying U.S. companies. It also said government computer systems should not include components from them because they might pose an espionage risk. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Judges speak out on Pussy Riot decision

The Russian judges who ruled to keep two of the three Pussy Riot band members behind bars took the unusual step of publicly defending their decision, saying Thursday that it was independently and without pressure.

A panel of three judges at the Moscow City Court on Wednesday upheld a lower-court ruling to send Nadezhda Tolokonnikova and Maria Alekhina to prison for two years, but they released Yekaterina Samutsevich after giving her a suspended sentence.

Pussy Riot staged an impromptu performance at Moscow's main cathedral in February in protest against President Vladimir Putin and the Russian Orthodox Church hierarchy for openly supporting his rule. The three women were convicted of hooliganism motivated by religious hatred, but they insist that their protest was political in na-ture and not an attack on religion.

The case has caused controversy in Russia and been widely condemned in the West, which may have prompted the judges to speak out.

The presiding judge said the appeals court deemed it necessary for Tolokon-nikova and Alekhina to remain incarcerated.

"The court has considered all the circumstances of the case and the level of danger to society and ruled that their correction is possible only in isolation from society," judge Larisa Polyakova said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- Yekaterina Samutsevich, 30, is a computer programmer who helped develop a nuclear attack submarine for Russia's navy. She was arrested in 2010 for releasing cockroaches in a Moscow courthouse.
- Maria Alekhina, 24, is a student at the Institute of Journalism and Creative Writing in Moscow who also volunteers at Moscow's Children's Psychiatric Hospital. She has a five-year-old son.

grievous blow to freedom of speech. We hope that this is a lesson for the Canadians and the Americans for us to stand up, unite together, and protect our freedom of speech," the statement said.

According to Jones's statement, the rental car he was travelling in was thoroughly searched and protest placards were confiscated.

The statement said Jones and a travelling companion were refused entry based on an arrest in Michigan last year for refusing to pay a peace bond as well as a fine by the German government for using the title "doctor" based on an honorary doctorate he received from a California university in 1993. Jones said he appealed both disputes and won but the statement indicated that border officials told him they needed more documentation in order to allow him to enter.

The Canada Border Services Agency declined to discuss Jones's case, saying it was against their policy to share de-tails of any individual efforts to enter the country.

"Admissibility of all travellers seeking to enter Canada is considered on a case-by-case basis based on the specific facts presented by the applicant at the time of entry," the agency said in a statement.

Bieber fans deface memorial

Some Justin Bieber fans defaced the memorial wall at Vancouver's Rogers Arena Wednesday night where Canucks fans have been paying tribute to Rick Rypien since his suicide just over a year

One Rypien fan was up early the next morning to try to scrub the messages off with nail polish, but the messages to "J.B." were stubborn and by mid-morning the bottle was abandoned there, nearly full.

Fans of the late hockey forward, who suffered from clinical depression, took to Twitter to denounce the acts of vandalism.

"Oh man I don't like to call people stupid but how do you write about a Justin Bieber concert on Rick Ryp-ien's memorial? Insanity," wrote Wyatt Arndt.

One Bieber fan apparently signed her name on the wall, and after a photo of the signature circulated online someone sent the girl a tweet telling her to jump off a bridge.

Another Twitter user, Alexandra Ransford, was hit by a backlash for calling the Bieber fan who signed the wall a b--h.

"So after being depressed for 5 years I'm being bullied for being upset about a suicide victims memorial being written on. How pleasant :(" Ransford wrote.

Alexandra, 18, was too upset Thursday to do an interview, but her mother, Ellen Ransford, said she had been crying all morning about the defacement and being accused of "fuelling the fire" by Twitter users who assumed the vandals to be underage. KATE WEBB/METRO IN VANCOUVER

Plane was carrying ammunition to Syria: Turkey's PM

Tough stand. Engineer on board Syrian plane said armed Turkish officials handcuffed the crew before inspecting packages

A plane intercepted by Turkish fighter jets on its way from Moscow to Damascus was carrying equipment and ammunition destined for the Syrian Defence Ministry, Turkey's prime minister said Thursday.

Recep Tayyip Erdogan's comments follow a fierce denial by Syria that anything illegal had been aboard the Airbus A320 that was forced by Turkey to land in Ankara late Wednesday. Syria, whose relations with neighbouring Turkey have plummeted over the Syrian war, branded it an act of piracy.

Earlier in the day, Turkish officials had rejected claims by Syria's ally, Russia, that Turkey had endangered the lives of Russian citizens on board the aircraft.

Yeni Safak, a newspaper close to the Turkish government, reported Thursday there were 10 containers aboard the plane, whose contents included radio receivers, antennas and equipment "thought to be missile parts."

The two neighbours have traded artillery fire over Syria's northern border throughout the past week.

Hours before the Turkish statement, Russian Ambassador Vladimir Ivanovsky had held talks with Turkish officials at the Foreign Ministry.

Russian Foreign Ministry spokesman Alexander Lukashevich had said earlier Thursday that Moscow was concerned that lives and safety of the 35 passengers, including 17 Russian citizens, had been endangered.

He said Turkey without explanation denied Russian consular officials and a doctor access to the passengers, who had not been allowed into the airport for eight hours or provided with food.

Terror cell. Islamists planned to send jihadists to Syria, prosecutor says

A network of French Islamists behind a grenade attack on a kosher market also planned to join jihadists fighting in Syria, a state prosecutor said Thursday, calling the suspected terrorist group potentially the most dangerous established in France since the 1990s.

Five of the 12 people arrested in sweeps in cities around France have been freed, said the prosecutor, Francois Molins. He said seven people remain in custody a day after police discovered bomb-making materials in an underground parking lot as part of a probe of an "extremely dangerous terrorist cell." The seven, aged 19 to 25 years old, were all born in France, he said.

The Sept. 19 attack on the market in Sarcelles, outside Paris, shattered windows and injured a customer at the store. It has revived French concerns that home-grown Islamic militants want to link with international jihad and carry out terrorism in France—this time, notably, against Jewish targets.

"The intent was to kill," Molins said.

Terror network

The case involves two components: The kosher grocery attack, and the recruitment network.

 Two suspects "had the mission of recruiting and sending individuals to carry out jihad in some countries — notably Syria," prosecutor Francois Molins said. Two members of the cell had recently spent three months each in Tunisia and Egypt.

 Police investigators turned up five wills that had "recommendations such as 'the day that I won't be here ... give my iPod to my sister and such-and-such item to my brother-inlaw," Molins said.

Prison baby. Outcry follows jail-cell birth

The Elizabeth Fry Society is calling for a public inquiry into health-care services provided to inmates after a woman gave birth in an Ottawa jail cell without the help of a doctor.

The group's director, Bryonie Baxter, says a systemic review of the prison system is needed to begin changing a culture that sees inmates treated as less than human.

Skinamarinky drinky, drink

A restaurant chain has apologized for accidentally serving alcohol to a toddler in Wales, calling it a case of human error.

The BBC reported that two-year-old Sonny Rees was taken to a hospital emergency room after drinking whisky at his second birthday party at a Frankie and Benny's restaurant in Swansea.

His mother said he was clearly intoxicated. She said she tasted his drink after noticing that he was making a funny face. At the hospital, the staff monitored his vital signs and later gave him the all-clear. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Panda mom not responsible for her cub's death

Return to normal.

After four weeks of grieving, Mei Xiang has left her den and is spending time outside

U.S. National Zoo scientists have determined a six-day-old giant panda cub's death last month wasn't momma bear's fault, and life was returning to normal Thursday for giant panda Mei Xiang.

The panda mom has stopped cradling a toy and left her den to spend more time in her yard. On Thursday morning, she strolled outside, found a fruity frozen ice bar and turned her back to a gathering crowd to enjoy breakfast.

Mei Xiang's cub, born Sept. 16, died of liver trouble and signs of lung disease, said chief veterinarian Suzan Murray. After a full necropsy, scientists found the tiny female cub's lungs hadn't fully developed and likely weren't sending enough oxygen to the liver. The cub was possibly born prematurely.

Žoo scientists are trying to learn more about how common liver and lung defects are in newborn pandas.

Zookeepers have said Mei Xiang took careful care of the cub. It weighed only about four ounces when it died. The tiny hairless, helpless creatures can be easily crushed, but the cub had no sign of injury. A small amount of milk in the digestive system suggested she had nursed. The associated press

His arrest came hours after two police officers in the region of Manchester, northern England, were killed in a gun-and-grenade attack that shocked the nation.

Thew was sentenced to four months in jail Thursday after earlier pleading guilty to a public order offence.

He received another four months for breaching the terms of an earlier suspended sentence.

Hong Kong. Woman dies after blood-transfusion beauty treatment

Hong Kong authorities said one woman has died and three others have been hospitalized after a beauty treatment involving blood transfusions.

Hong Kong's Hospital Authority said a 46-year-old woman died Wednesday of septic shock after receiving the treatment at a beauty clinic. The treatment is being tested as a method to fight cancer but in this case it was used for cosmetic purposes.

The case has raised concerns about potentially risky medical treatments at the city's numerous clinics offering procedures that claim to enhance a person's appearance.

Health Secretary Ko Wingman promised Thursday to review regulations governing the clinics and other private medical facilities. Ko said the review would look at putting private clinics that carry out "high-risk medical treatments or procedures under regulatory control."

Health authorities are investigating whether a registered doctor carried out the treatment and whether the procedure was certified by Hong Kong's Medical Council.

The procedur

 Injection. The procedure, known as DC-CIK, involves the "concentration and processing" of blood by a lab before it is reinjected into the person it was drawn from, the government said.

The four also tested positive for a rare superbug called mycobacterium abscessus, which is extremely resistant to antibiotics.

The three women in hospital are a 64-year-old in critical condition, a 56-year-old in serious condition and a 59-year old in stable condition.

They were among 44 people who underwent the treatment at the DR Beauty chain of clinics. The treatment costs at least $6,320, according to local news reports.

Police and health officials are investigating how the blood was contaminated and the relationship between the beauty clinic, the treatment lab and the medical practitioner who carried out the procedure. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gruesome. Mom who glued daughter's hands to wall faces sentencing

A Dallas mother who admitted to beating her two-year-old daughter and gluing the child's hands faces anything from probation to a life in prison for her crimes.

Elizabeth Escalona's sentencing hearing continued Thursday, a day after she pleaded for leniency, saying she was no longer the "monster" who committed the attack.

"I will never forgive myself for what I did to my own daughter," said Escalona, who pleaded guilty in July to felony injury to a child.

Police say Escalona lost her temper last year with Jocelyn Cedillo over potty training problems. Escalona beat and kicked Jocelyn before sticking her hands to an apartment wall using an adhesive commonly known as Super Glue. The child was hospitalized for days.

Judge Larry Mitchell has a wide range in choosing Escalona's sentence: anything from probation to life in prison is possible. Prosecutors are asking for a 45-year sentence.

Defence attorney Angie N'Duka asked Escalona what she thought of photos that prosecutors presented earlier this week showing her daughter's injuries. "Only a monster does that," Escalona responded.

Montreal cop sidelined after violent exchange

Profanity-laced arrest.Const. 'No. 728' caught in video controversy for the second time this year

A Montreal police constable has been suspended after becoming involved, for a second time, in an aggressive exchange captured on video.

The officer, known as No. 728, in reference to her badge number, has been suspended pending a disciplinary investigation, police chief Marc Parent said on Thursday.

Const. Stefanie Trudeau first made local news earlier this year when video surfaced of her vigorously pepper-spraying a crowd of student protesters who appeared to pose no threat.

This week, new video surfaced of a forceful, profanity-laced arrest during a dispute that started with a man drinking a beer outdoors. She was also recorded making derogatory comments about artists, among other people.

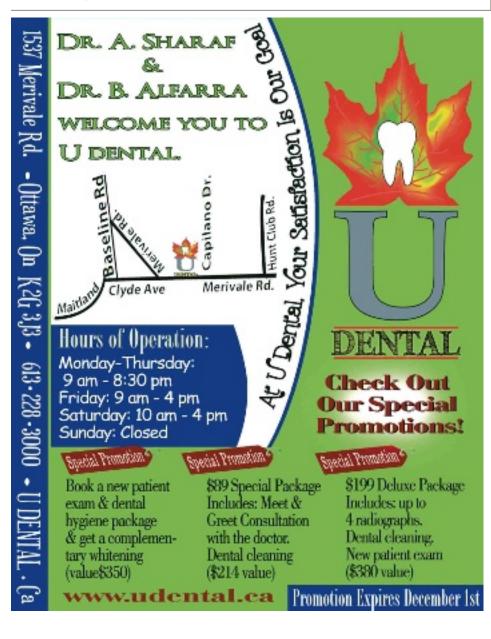

Parent apologized Thursday on behalf of the force. "These comments are completely unacceptable, intolerable and do not reflect our values," he said.

Trudeau was initially relegated to desk duty after video of the Oct. 2 incident was broadcast by Radio-Canada. It shows a man complaining that the arrest of his friend is unnecessary. Within seconds, he is put in a headlock, dragged down a flight of stairs while in a chokehold and handcuffed.

One of the cellphones confiscated by the officer then records her subsequent conversation with a superior, apparently without her knowledge. The recording captures references to "rats" who are "guitar-plucking" artists and who wear red squares, the symbol of Quebec's student-protest movement. There is also talk about choking a suspect, along with a string of unprintable epithets.

Man set on fire, another shot in labour unrest

A burned-out minibus taxi near the Amplats mine in Rustenburg, South Africa, on Thursday. Striking miners vowed to make the platinum mines ungovernable.

South Africa. Violence has escalated at platinum mine since 12,000 striking workers were fired last week

Striking miners killed one man by setting him on fire Thursday while another was fatally shot, apparently by police, in rekindled labour unrest in South Africa that saw police firing tear gas and rubber bullets.

The violence near an Anglo American Platinum (Amplats) mine has escalated since the company dismissed 12,000 striking miners on Friday. Dozens have been killed in violence in other strikes in South Africa since August.

One person died Thursday in a hospital after being hit by two rubber bullets likely fired by police trying to disperse striking miners, said Gaddafi Mdoda, a leader of the striking Amplats mineworkers. Another person died from wounds after being set alight by striking workers, North West police spokesman Brig. Thulani Ngubane said.

"The situation remains tense," Ngubane said.

Police Capt. Dennis Adriao said 40 people have been arrested in violence at the Nkaneng informal settlement near Rustenburg.

The mineworkers have vowed to make the mines ungovernable and to make it impossible for the world's top platinum producer to hire new workers if their wage demands are not met. Evans Ramokga, a strike leader, said last week that the company would hire new workers only "over our dead bodies."

Police apparently were responding to the miners' attempt to stop operations at Amplats' Bathopele mine on Thursday, according to the South African Press Association, which reported that two taxis were set on fire. Amplats' operations in the platinum belt northwest of Johannesburg have been brought to a standstill since most of its workers went on strike last month. Amplats calls the strike illegal. Wildcat strike

South Africa has been under the grip of labour unrest since August, when platinum miners in Marikana staged a wildcat strike demanding higher pay.

 Police shot and killed 34 striking miners and wounded scores more. That strike ended with a hefty pay raise for the workers and inspired copycat strikes that have since spread to gold and iron ore mines as well as the trucking industry.

August data. Slumping imports reduce Canada's trade deficit

Canada's trade deficit with the world narrowed in August to $1.3 billion from $2.5 billion in July due mostly to a drop in imports. Economists said this is further evidence of the impact of the sluggish global economy on the country.

David Watt, chief economist at HSBC Bank Canada, said the trade gap narrowed for the wrong reason — weakness here in Canada. "Canada's trade deficit narrowed in August, and though rising energy prices suggest that the decline was for the right reasons — that is, higher prices for key exports in fact, the narrowing had more to do with slumping imports," Watt said.

Statistics Canada said Thursday that merchandise imports fell 3.1 per cent to $38.8 billion, with declines in every sector except energy products.

Exports edged down 0.1 per cent in August to $37.5 billion as exports of industrial goods and materials slipped and exports of energy products increased after six consecutive monthly declines.

Telecom regulator asks for consumer input on wireless retail code

Canadians are being asked for help to develop a national retail code for wireless services like cellphones and tablets.

The CRTC said Thursday that it's asking for help because consumers have said their monthly contracts are confusing and the terms and conditions can vary greatly from one wireless company to another.

"Our goal is to make sure that Canadians have the tools they need to make informed choices in a competitive marketplace," CRTC chairman Jean-Pierre Blais said in a news release.

The federal telecom regulator said consumers are being asked for their opinions on the terms and conditions that should be addressed by such a code and how the rules should be enforced, for example.

The CRTC said a national the responsibilities of wireless companies.

Canadians can participate online or write to the CRTC to give their views. The CRTC will also hold a public hearing Jan.

Trading up: Wendy's revamps 30-year-old logo

Wendy's pigtails are getting a tweak. For the first time since 1983, the Dublin, Ohio-based fast food company is updating its logo in a move intended to signal its ongoing transformation into a higher-end hamburger chain.

Instead of the boxy, oldfashioned lettering against a red-and-yellow backdrop, the pared down new look features the chain's name in a casual red font against a clean white backdrop. An image of the smiling, cartoon girl in red pigtails floats above — though this girl looks more vivid and not quite as childlike.

was encouraged by consumer feedback in testing dozens of new logo variations over the past several months.

"When we pushed things too far, they very much reeled us back," he said, noting that it showed just how attached people are to the brand.

BIG BIRD AD LEAVES US TICKLED PINK

It's that time again; the time when the Metro List combines everything from the awesome to the zany to remind you that your world is getting weirder by the week.

Eighties re-enactment. Everyone knows that iconic scene from 1989's Say Anything with John Cusack (as Lloyd Dobler) holding up the boom box while playing In Your Eyes for Ione Skye (as Diane Court). Well, Cusack showed up on stage with a boom box for Peter Gabriel at the Hollywood Bowl on the weekend before he performed the song. Eighties movie re-enactments in real life = retro awesome.

The shocking split. They were one of those Hollywood couples that gave you hope for longevity in Hollywood couples. But on Monday, after 30 years of marriage, actors Danny DeVito and Rhea Perlman announced they were separating. Love is dead. In Hollywood, that is. Not in the real world.

Poor Elmo. Big Bird has become a huge star after Mitt Romney's debate remarks about loving the eight-foot-two canary but being willing to cut PBS's funding. Big Bird made an appearance on Saturday Night Live, and stars in a new Obama-campaign ad, in which Big Bird and Sesame Street are compared to Bernie Madoff and Wall Street. Poor Elmo is waiting for a Romney endorsement now.

Ben Affleck. The director-actor went on Twitter Monday to host an online chat about Argo, his new drama/thriller opening Friday. Affleck showed his funny side, tweeting that if he wasn't directing, "I'd be writing Twitter feeds for celebrities." And if Argo "were mistaken for #FARGO, I wouldn't mind. Pretty great movie." But just don't mistake Argo for the Toronto Argos.

Jen's rock. Jennifer Aniston's ginormous engagement ring from fiancé Justin Theroux caught on camera was the talk of the Internet, with some people calling it over the top, pretentious and gaudy. Of course, there's always the remote possibility Aniston's pranking us with that huge rock. Or trying out for Real Housewives of Beverly Hills.

Sexiest woman alive. It must be an honour for Mila Kunis to receive this title from Esquire magazine in its November issue. And her beau, Ashton Kutcher, must be an equally happy camper. Runners-up for the title include Anne Hathaway, Katie Holmes and my wife, Christi. Now, the part about my wife isn't true, but I just got enough brownie points to last a week for suggesting it.

Tim Tebow. Monday night's NFL game between the Jets and Texans became one of good versus evil when Jets backup QB Tim Tebow (a devout Christian) tweeted out earlier in the day "Looking forward to giving God all the glory in tonight's 666th Monday Night Football game. Romans 8:37-39." Evil won out, barely, as the Texans beat Tebow 23-17.

Lena Dunham. The Girls creator's autobiographical Not That Kind of Girl: A Young Woman Tells You What She's Learned, is the talk of literary circles. A bidding war for the 26-year-old's book of essays ended with her signing a $3.5-million US deal with Random House. Publishers, if you're interested in Not That Kind of Guy: A Middle-Aged Man Tells You What He's Learned, give me your best offer

Eric Winston. An eloquent post-game rant by the Kansas City Chiefs offensive lineman went viral on YouTube after he tore into hometown fans who cheered an injury to their own OB Matt Cassel, who had been performing poorly. Cassel suffered a concussion and Winston laid into the fans, calling the cheering "100 per cent sickening." Indeed, those fans were so far offside.

Jian Ghomeshi's 1982. This goofy, thoughtful memoir by the host of CBC Radio's Q gives the goods on life growing up as a Persian-Canadian boy in the early '80s in Thornhill, Ont. It also covers the influence of new wave (Bowie, The Clash, Talking Heads — yes!) on the budding culture maven. Full of pop culture, full of Canadi-ana, full of the '80s — like it on Facebook, love it in real life.

Twitter quake. The Montreal region was hit by a small quake Wednesday night, and people took to Twitter with some comic gems. "Apparently the Hockey Gods are pissed that the puck won't be dropping at the Bell Centre on Thursday. #earthquake #montreal, tweeted one person. "PVRs have spoiled me. I want to rewind real life by 10 minutes so I can feel that #earthquake again,' quipped another.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Mission: Theatrical

Argo. The Reel Guys may have uncovered the underlying intent of this movie about a Hollywood-assisted CIA op in Iran

Richard: Mark, despite being based in truth, this spy story has the kind of Hollywood feel that reduces the agents to stereotypes — the world-weary spymaster, the by-the-book boss wielding the "Clipboard of Authority" — and the mission to a series of set pieces involving split-second timing and imminent danger. But this isn't Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy, with that movie's pensive take on the intelligence racket. It's an Affleck-directed thriller that despite its overreliance on wellworn theatrics, works well.

Mark: I'm so glad it isn't

Tinker Tailor Boring Spy. That put me to sleep. This is a fast-paced, often-funny caper movie. Everyone plays their parts well, but it's not an actor's movie, it's the story that matters. And what a story! It seems absurd but it's too loopy NOT to be true. You might say the film buys into the American belief that Hollywood conquers all, even an international crisis, but it sends it up satirically too. And Canadians are partly the heroes of the film — sort of.

RC: The Canadian connection is played with a sort of understated aplomb, which I suppose suits our national character, but I would have loved to see Ken Taylor played as more of an action hero, like Captain Canuck with diplomatic immunity. I'll also agree this isn't an actor's movie, but you have to love Alan Arkin as HollyArkin is the most flambovant actor on screen and injects needed energy into stateside scenes MB: So true about Arkin; he's the only one who stands out. And he has the best line in the film: "If I'm going to make a fake movie, I want it to be a fake hit!" I actually spent time wondering if the fake movie might actually be watchable if it were made. The plot didn't look any worse than John Carter. And here's a nice paranoid thought: The Iranians in the movie looked dangerous, and the timing of the movie's release, on the eve of a possible U.S. military intervention into Iran, seems convenient. A CIA co-production, Richard?

RC: Great, now the Reel Guys are going to end up on some kind of CIA watch list.

The action begins in 1979 as Iranian militants invade the U.S. embassy in Tehran, taking 52 of the 58 diplomats hostage. Six manage to escape, making their way to refuge at the home of Can-adian Ambassador Ken Taylor (Victor Garber). In the U.S. the CIA hire Tony Mendez (Ben Afleck), an "exfiltration" ex-pert to smuggle the six out of Iran. Creating false identities, he has them pose as a film crew scouting locations for a fake sci-fi flick called Argo.

Here Comes the Boom may not bring the boom but it's not quite cinematic doom either. At the broad comedy's core is Kevin James playing earnest as a bored biology teacher engaging in mixed martial arts to raise funds for his financiallystrapped school. As outrageous a premise as that is, it still sort of works due to some charming gags and bold brawl scenes. However, constant jabs of formulaic sentiment definitely keep the film from becoming a true champ. STEVE GOW

It may not be as neatlystructured as his Oscarnominated breakthrough comedy In Bruges but Martin McDonagh's Seven Psychopaths is certainly as entertaining. A bizarre riff on the art of screenwriting, the dog-napping caper features a struggling scribe (Colin Farrell) who finds inspiration in the shady characters that arise when his best bud nabs a mobster's mutt. While it's certainly a complex narrative that will lose many mainstream moviegoers. snappy dialogue and a fun cast make Psychopaths a big score. steve gow

Sinister

Director. Scott Derrickson

Stars. Ethan Hawke, Juliet Rylance, James Ransone

A true crime author (Ethan Hawke) is so convinced he's on to a new real-life mystery with the makings of a bestseller he relocates to a small town and a new house. He doesn't tell his wife or kids that the house is actually the scene of the crime he's investigating or about the disturbing home movies he finds in the attic. Sinister is a good old-fashioned spooky movie. It shies away from getting really down and dirty — most of the really grim stuff is left to our imaginations — but it builds tension well and will leave you unsettled.

Brandon Cronenberg's maiden feature is, on the surface, akin to the body horror bent of his famous father. But underneath it beats a very different, even more bleak heart. Caleb Landry-Jones plays Syd, a bootlegger of celebrity viruses whose clientele are addicted to injecting themselves with the diseases of the stars. Soon. Audition with Spielberg? No big deal for Henry Thomas

Blu-ray release.

Actor who played Elliott reflects on life-changing role, 30 years after E.T. hit theatres

There was a lot of pressure resting on Henry Thomas's tiny shoulders when he was cast in E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial, since the potential success of the tear-jerking fantasy classic was in part pinned on the pre-teen's ability to form a believable bond with the titular alien.

But Thomas, who was 10 when the influential film was released, was fortunate - he was too young to realize how much the film's prospects might have hinged on his emotional performance.

"I felt the pressure just as a day to day thing — it was a lot of work — but I didn't delve past it, didn't start to build it up in my mind or anything," Thomas, now 41, said in a recent telephone interview.

"I didn't stress out over it. Because I was 10 (and) I was worried about other things.

"If I had to do it now? I'd probably be a nervous wreck.'

Those were innocent days for Thomas, who recalls that even when he walked into the audition with director Steven Spielberg — now a three-time Oscar winner — he wasn't at all starstruck. Thomas was just another sci-fi obsessed child excited to meet the man who helped bring Star Wars and Raiders of the Lost Ark to the screen.

Thomas's crucial audition for the role of Elliott — a lonely boy in suburban California who befriends and protects a gentle alien that's stranded on Earth has been immortalized on YouTube, though it's also one of the many special features bundled into the film's lavish new Blu-ray release, which hits stores Tuesday and includes a startlingly fastidious visual res-

As soon as the try-out ends, Spielberg waits just a matter of seconds to give Thomas the good news: "OK, kid, you got

"That was great," says Thomas now. "If every audition was like that, it'd be perfect.'

At the time of this interview, Thomas admitted he hadn't recently revisited the film — "I didn't do my homework," he cracked.

But it won't be long before he gives it another look.

"I'm planning on showing it to my oldest daughter, who's eight now," he said.

"It's pretty much right up her alley.

"Sports and athletics are an important part of social upbringing and they're cultural experiences that (my kids) enjoy and I don't think they should change that," admits one of the subjects in the stirring new documentary Head Games, an exploration into the long-term effects of head injuries. "We don't want to create this heightened sense of fear about sport and athletics so it's a very fine line to walk, to get people to understand it's a real problem."

Burns gets back to his Irish roots

What he knows best.

Star of Alex Cross talks about his work on a sequel to Brothers McMullan and how Tyler Perry gave him the idea to do it

NED EHRBAR Metro World News in Hollywood

Edward Burns hit it big with his debut feature as a writer, director and star, the Brothers McMullan, in 1995. So what's he planning for the 20th anniversary? A sequel, of course. In fact, Burns tells Metro that none other than Tyler Perry — with whom he co-stars in Alex Cross — has encouraged him to get back to the Irish-American story lines that brought him success to begin with.

It's been nearly 20 years since the Brothers McMullan.

I can't believe it's coming up on 20 years. It's crazy. I'm actually working on the sequel for the 20th anniversary. And I did one that comes out in November called the Fitzgerald Family Christmas, which is seven adult siblings. All my friends from big Irish clans who have seen it are like, "Oh man, this one hits a little too close to home."

Why a Christmas movie?

It's funny. Tyler is the inspiration for the movie. He had just watched Brothers McMullan while we were working together and he was like, "Why didn't you ever make a sequel for that film?" So that's where that idea came from. And then he goes, "You know, those first two movies were so successful, and it's all about the Irish-Catholic families. Why haven't you written about that since?' And I really didn't have an explanation. He's like. "Take it from me. Superserve your niche. I guarantee that all those folks that really connected to those first two movies, if you were to make another Ĭrish-American-themed film, they're probably going to come out to check it

Aside from your own movies, a lot of your characters have this strong Irish-America identity. It's even mentioned here in Alex Cross.

I was in this movie called Life or Something Like It with Angelina Jolie, a romantic comedy, and at a certain point they were just like, "All right, what are we going to do with this accent? Let's get him in a Mets hat in one scene and we'll just be done with it." But for me as a filmmaker, it's not even just writing what you know, it's write what you love, you know? Bond with the classics

Spy soundtrack. With Adele's Skyfall pleasing the ears of fans, we look at the other songs that made the secret agent saga famous

With the release of the latest Bond movie Skyfall and the film's impressive song of the same name by British songstress Adele, Metro looks at a long line of iconic tunes that helped make Bond the sophisticated, escapist's franchise that it is today.

Goldfinger by Shirley Bassey from Goldfinger

Classic film, classic voice: Bassey recorded three Bond themes, the only performer to do more than one.

Theme/Kingston Calypso/Three Blind Mice by Monty Norman from Dr. No

The first, and, if not the best, it deserves credit for setting the tone for future Bonds, although the end of the YouTube clip for the song is just odd. Plus: funky title design!

Live and Let Die by Paul McCartney & Wings from Live and Let Die

Love it when the guitar breaks out. Or are we thinking of the Guns N Roses

Nobody Does it Better by Carly Simon from The Spy Who Loved Me

The title says it all.

A View to a Kill (Dance Into the Fire) by Duran Duran from A View to a Kill

For a certain generation, Roger Moore is James Bond, and this was his definitive 80s theme.

OHMSS Title Theme by John Barry Orchestra from On Her Maiesty's Secret Service

Sampled by DJs even today, this classical hit is more fondly remembered than George whatshisname.

Diamonds are Forever by Shirley Bassey from Diamonds are Forever

Another Bassey smash, this for the last official film to star Sean Connery.

From Russia with Love (Instrumental) by John Barry

from From Russia with Love

Another instrumental, and still glorious 50 years later.

The World is Not Enough by Garbage from The World is Not Enough

Kudos to the producers for taking a risk here, hiring an alt rock band with electronic, melancholy touches, to shake things up. It's Bond remixed.

You Only Live Twice by Nancy Sinatra from You Only Live

A year after her hit These Boots Are Made for Walkin', Frank's daughter scored another hit.

Moonraker by Shirley Bassey from Moonraker

Bassey is still alive and performing Bond songs. Bring

Thunderball by Tom Jones from Thunderball

Who better to sing a Bond song than a man who scores just as many ladies?

The Man with the Golden Gun by Lulu from The Man with the Golden Gun

Lovely. But we prefer Lulu's To Sir, with Love

GoldenEye by Tina Turner from GoldenEye

She's an icon. This song, not

Licence to Kill by Gladys Knight from Licence to Kill

The track sounds very 1989, but we're nostalgic for it. Unlike Sheena Easton's.

For Your Eyes Only by Sheena Easton from For Your Eyes Only The '80s Brit sings this one right into the camera, and gives it her all. We remember it being played in dentists' offices everywhere.

All Time High by Rita Coolidge from Octopussy

The tune is passable but we dock points because she never says the word Octopussy.

The Living Daylights by A-Ha from The Living Daylights Side note: A-Ha's video for

Take on Me was better than this entire film.

Another Way to Die by Jack White & Alicia Keys from Quantum of Solace

Stuttering, rockabilly, and featuring a weird pair, this tune is at least bolder than the movie, one of the worst

Bonds ever.

Tomorrow Never Dies by Sheryl Crow from Tomorrow Never Dies

There's no one less Bond than the woman behind elevator music like All I Wanna Die Another Day by Madonna from Die Another Day Madonna + vocoder = a dated techno fail. This just misses last place because at least we remember it.

You Know My Name by Chris

Cornell from Casino Royale

A revitalizing movie. With theme song sung by a grunge-era relic. METRO WORLD NEWS

Behind the curtain

Interview. Metro speaks to the British singer about his views on the Royals, his Latino fanbase, a Smiths reunion and his new autobiography

HEALY

When the opportunity arises to interview a celebrity via email, we often balk at the invitation because there's really no way of knowing that the person who is supposedly answering is the person to whom you're really posing the questions.

But occasionally we'll make exceptions for an entertainer we feel is worth any inconvenience.

And so it was that the British singer Morrissey became part of this elite and mismatched club.

Earlier this month, ru-mours emerged online that The Smiths, known for their less than amicable split, were reuniting.
He quickly quashed those rumours and was eager to discuss his upcoming autobiography, which his publisher, Penguin Books, is already calling "a classic in the making."

Did you find fulfillment in writing your autobiog-raphy? Was there a particular period of time in your life that you exorcised that gave you more relief to revisit than others?

The terror is equally balanced throughout all periods. It's a bit like locking yourself away in a dark room and hoping to God something useful develops.

Were there portions that you found yourself skipping over because you felt like you adequately addressed them in song already? No, because anything worth saying bears repeating.

Was dealing with a long format a luxury or a chore? At times I felt ready to be carried off, and you can certainly overdose on yourself. But even on off-days I'd find some petrol (gas) in the tank.

You've always been known for writing such great quotable couplets, which ended up in countless yearbooks over the years. Can you share either the first or last sentence of the book with our readers?

Under no circumstances. Speaking of songwriting lines, is there a line from one of your songs for which you hope you will be best remembered? Fortunately, there are

A few more questions

Do you address the beginning of your career in a way that fans might finally stop asking you when The Smiths will get back together? If people continue to ask that question now, which they do, then they shall never stop, and they shall never stop because they don't understand the history of the band. Asking about a Smiths reformation is no different to driving into fog.

How important was it to you to let your feelings be known about the Royal Family during the Olympics? I don't view it as criticism but as intelligent observation. The so-called Royals are a dictatorship.

many. When you've recorded songs such as Life is a Pigsty and The World is Full of Crashing Bores, it can't be denied that you at least have something to say. ... Although Rolling Stone magazine has done a great job of ousting me off the human map.

Further on that topic of being remembered, you've dealt with the subject of death in your songs quite extensively. Do you have your epitaph picked out already?

On the opposite end of the spectrum, what makes you laugh these days?

About 10 years ago, Chuck Klosterman wrote an article for Spin where he drew attention to your Latino fanbase, which had previously been unknown to many readers. When did vou first become aware that this segment of the population was getting so much out of your music?

When I first toured the U.S. as a solo entity, I noticed that 70 per cent of the audience was Latino. Many were, and are, serious gang tribes out for blood, which, of course, is lovely and quite handy given the circumstances of my life. It was persistently written in England that the only people who could possibly like Morrissey were those who made their own bread. This was never true.

You're playing with the Stooges on a few of these dates. Out of respect for Iggy, will you be keeping your shirt on? The shirtless thing is interesting because both of you guys do it so differently. What is it all about for you?

I'm the before to Iggy's after. My body is nothing to look at, but it's mine and we get on quite well.

You've said that you wouldn't perform past the age of 55. Is this still your cut-off?

I doubt I'll make it to 55. The British Royals will turn the tanks on me way before

Pattinson seen with mystery girl on night out

Despite reports of a reconciliation between Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart, the British Twilight star was recently enjoying the company of another woman, according to the Daily Mail. Pattinson and some pals hit up a New York City nightclub earlier this week, though the ac-

Grey's star McKidd reflects on how far he has come

THE WORD

Dorothy Robinson scene@metronews.

"I can't believe I had to come all the way to New York to get a glass of Macallan," proclaimed actor Kevin McKidd's extremely Scottish father Neil on Wednesday night. He was sipping the scotch whisky at a party celebrating a new creative campaign between his son, photographer Annie Leibovitz and Macallan.

It was a good crack by the elder McKidd. He and his wife, Kathleen, raised Kevin in Elgin, which is just a few miles away from the Macallan distillery, where the actor worked as a teenager. "I was literally the guy who swept up all the crap and did all the crap jobs," recounted Kevin, who is probably most famous for portraying Dr. Owen Hunt (a.k.a. McRugged) on Grey's Anatomy. "I was the hired hand holding all the rubbish."

And now he's being photographed by Leibovitz for the Macallan Masters of Photography campaign, which is comprised of 1,000 limited edition bottles featuring various portraits of McKidd. "It's extremely surreal," he said.

Angry Bieber takes to Twitter as 'personal' footage, items are stolen

Justin Bieber had his computer and camera stolen from backstage during a tour stop in Washington state this week, he announced on Twitter. "Yesterday during the show me and my tour manager Josh had some stuff stolen. Really sucks. People should respect other's property," he posted. "I had a lot of personal footage on that computer and camera and that is what bothers me the most." It's unclear just how "personal" that footage is, but so far there have been no reports of anyone looking to sell anything compromising from Bieber's collection.

Eight different ways to fall for food

Fall food in Canada is distinct in its ability to comfort and inspire. Across the country, there are trends that are cosy, warming and just what old man winter ordered. The theme this year seems to be low brow, peasant, artisanal and South American/Mexican. Real, honest, earthy and tasty takes the cupcake.

THERESA ALBERT, DHN, RNCP (MYFRIENDINFOOD.COM)

Anything Taco

Tacos are huge! Fish tacos, bison tacos, Mexican seasonings or more fusion esoteric flavours abound. If it is wrapped in a corn or wheat tortilla, it is cool. If it has slaw or pickles, it is over the moon, super cool. The newest versions have soft corn tacos rather than the envelope ones that your mom made, which leaked and cracked and drizzled meat juice all down your arm. Nowadays, you really ought to eat this art with a fork

Grilled Cheese

Any way you slice it, the classic standby has become a shining example of gourmet. Mixing cheeses with condiments, meats with pickles, thick breads and thin is very au courant. And if you can get your grilled cheese from a food truck, well, aren't you the cat's meow?

Ethnic Condiments

The more authentic the condiment, the better! You've never had such fun mixing Indian Raita with spicy Mexican food or garlicky chimichurri with sheep's milk brie on baguette. Chutneys of all shapes and flavours as well as harissa and other flavourful pastes make a meal sing.

Cupcakes

These wee treaties are not going away. A cake is too much of a commitment but a cupcake can cheer you up in a few bites and not leave eight more pieces in the kitchen to call your name. Apples, baked, caramelized or stewed are also making a comeback and if you find a cupcake containing those flavours, buy it!

Dolce De Leche

Literally "sweet milk," this Portuguese simmered and caramelized milk has taken over menus. Its creamy, smooth, uber sweetness graces everything from chocolate cake to churros these days — and with good reason.

Food Trucks

Cities are figuring out zoning to allow these restaurants on wheels to work their magic. Chefs are cooking up a storm of everything but burgers and fries. Deep fryers aren't standard equipment but creativity and "fresh is best" attitudes are.

Eggs

They are back as a humble fried ingredient. Duck, chicken, quail, vitamin D fortified, it doesn't matter. Their simple beauty has always been the bailiwick of chefs. But the egg's honesty may have seemed too understated for their menus. Now it's just what's needed — solid food.

Artisan Cheese

Isn't it a dream that every foodie has? To milk a goat, figure out how to make that milk into delicious cheese and enjoy it for the year? Luckily, enough folks have ditched city life for a farm to do just that in enough quantities to

NHL. Penguins superstar believes lockout won't erase entire season

Sidney Crosby can't even get through a conversation with his grandmother without the topic being raised.

topic being raised.

A phone call back to Nova Scotia over Thanksgiving weekend inevitably veered towards the status of the NHL's collective bargaining talks and included the $3-billion question being asked throughout the hockey world: When will the season start?

"It's all anybody wants to talk about," Crosby said Thursday.

That includes the Penguins captain, who fielded questions from reporters at a practice facility in the suburbs of Pittsburgh. It was a morning he should have been preparing for the season opener — Friday's game against the Islanders was cancelled by the lockout — but instead found himself going through drills with a handful of teammates.

They are the optimistic few who are staying in town with hopes that a settlement will soon be reached and training camp can open. At this point, Crosby isn't even willing to Wishful thinking

The progress Crosby is hoping for didn't happen this week during two days of meetings between the league and NHLPA in New York.

 The sides broke off talks Thursday afternoon and reported no progress in their ongoing stalemate.

"I can't see it getting to that point, I really can't," he told The Canadian Press. "If anything, my thoughts are more just about whether the NHL has a date in mind (for the season to start) and just when they're actually going to start negotiating."

Much of Crosby's optimism is rooted in the growth he's seen since entering in the NHL. He was skating in the QMJHL during the 2004-05 lockout and helped propel the sport to new heights when the "new" NHL returned the following season.

"There's a lot of momentum," said Crosby. "I just really hope that the (owners) aren't taking that for granted."

Giants walk road to mammoth comeback

Not just any comeback would get San Francisco back to playing for a pennant. It would take one of Giant proportions.

And Buster Posey believed it could happen. Even after the Giants left the West Coast down two games, the National League batting champion insisted his team could pull it off, despite the long odds.

With one swing, he got everyone else believing it, too.

Posey hit the third grand slam in Giants post-season history on Thursday, and San Francisco pulled off an unprecedQuote

"You don't want to be in a lose-and-you're-out scenario," reliever Jeremy Affeldt said, wearing a brace on his left wrist so he didn't hurt it in the champagne-flavoured clubhouse celebration. "We've been in that situation for three days. We're probably going to sleep well tonight."

Game 1 of the NL championship series will be Sunday, either in Washington against the Nationals or in San Francisco vs. the Cardinals. In the meantime, the Giants will stay in Cincinnati until their next opponent is determined Friday night when the Cards and Nats play Game 5.

The Giants became the first NL team to overcome a 2-0 deficit in the division series, which began in 1995. Major League Baseball's changed playoff format this season let them become the first to take a best-of-five by winning the last three on the road. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Washington Nationals signed Jayson Werth to show them how to win. His game-ending homer Thursday night extended their surprising season.

Werth led off the bottom of the ninth inning by driving Lance Lynn's 13th pitch into the left-field stands to give the Nationals a 2-1 victory over the defending World Series champion St. Louis Cardinals.

↑ Aries

March 21 - April 20

What you decide to focus on today and over the weekend depends on trust. Specifically, do you trust partners and colleagues enough to take their advice seriously? That's something only you can decide.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The planets indicate that the more you push yourself now, the more you will achieve. The approaching new moon will boost your vitality and make it easier to get things done both at home and at work.

∐ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You won't lack for confidence over the next 24 hours. Even if you are one of those rare Geminis who is cautious by nature, you will take risks left, right and centre. Don't aim for perfection, aim to have fun.

9 Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You want the chance to prove yourself to the world and you will get it over the next few days. But don't push yourself so hard that you risk some sort of injury. Everyone has limits — even a Cancerian.

Ω Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

It seems you have something on your mind, something you feel needs to be said, and if others don't like it that's just too bad. You can be quite harsh when the mood takes you and it's taking you now.

W Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You need to adopt a more adventurous approach, especially where your personal life is concerned. Most of all, you need to get over your fear of rejection. The person you most need to love is yourself.

📤 Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

There is a new moon in your birth sign on Monday. Between now and then, you should give some thought to what kind of new start you want to make. Don't limit your horizons: Think big and act big too.

M Scorpio Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It's good to be tolerant, to accept that different people see things in different ways, but that does not mean you have to change your own ways. You are who you are for a reason — a good reason, too.

7 Sagittarius Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You are in one of those moods where you have very little patience with people who drag their feet or get in your way. Be warned though that if you are too abrasive, you could make a serious enemy — or several.

17 Capricorn

You may be worried that you won't make it to the top of whatever level it is you aspire to, but you will. Your greatest trait is not your ambition, but your staying power. You refuse to give up.

Aquarius Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You've had your fill of certain people and intend to get away from them as soon as possible. Good for you. A change of scene will do you a world of good today. Stretch it to several days if you can.

) (Pisces Feb. 20 - March 20

The approaching new moon will help you sort out your money situation but you've got to accept it will take time. If you act in haste today, you may regret it come Monday when other options reveal themselves. SALLY BROMPTON
